Dear Randy,

I have been remiss in not communicating to you sooner our appreciation, not only of the relationship we shared during the construction of our beautiful 30,000 square foot facility, but with the follow up and support your company has provided since we took occupancy of the building in October of 2006.

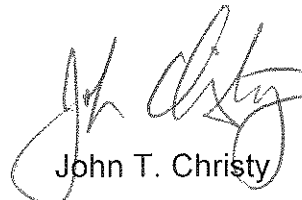

Your team of professionals was critical to the success of every phase of our project, providing sound advice and guidance every step of the way. Greg Roebuck played a critical role, consulting with us on many aspects of a complicated acquisition as well as on the permitting and bid evaluation processes. His involvement was also vital to protecting our interests in our overall deal as part of a landsite condominium, where we had to negotiate the integration of our project into the site work being provided by another contractor. Greg forced many issues with the other contractor, insisting that the "gray" areas that often result in major issues later in the project be resolved from the outset.

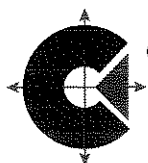

Carl Specht did an outstanding job as our Project Manager, negotiating and making recommendations to ensure that we were using the most cost effective measures and operating within our budget. He provided complete financial detail and backup and made sure that we were completely satisfied, but never "surprised", as we worked through several million dollars worth of construction draws! Pat Schueppert was also great to work with, and was a dedicated project superintendent who made sure the subs were delivering a quality product every day. Both Carl and Pat understood how personal this project was to us, and took it to heart to make sure the end result exceeded our expectations.

In a project like this, where you "really don't know what you don't know", I had complete confidence that your professional and competent team would act in our best interest at all times. We are fortunate to have had the opportunity to work with a company that demonstrated the value and integrity that Aagaard-Juergensen did throughout our project.

With deepest appreciation,

Andrea P. Christy
